TRAVELING IN STYLE WITH CHILDREN can be quite a challenge if it involves babies and toddlers but thanks to some innovative companies new services has come on the market to ease the traveling. One of them is the Italian company BabyGuest founded by Italian super-mom Serene Errico. Earlier this year she launched her website BabyGuest.com where parents very easily can book and rent all equipment they can possible need for a perfect vacation from a stroller, to carseat, bottle heater, cot and baby care products from the very best brands. They deliver same day in Italy and within forty-eight hours in all of Europe and have plans to expand to other countries in near future.

BabyGuets makes sure that everything will be awaiting the family when they arrive to their destination - all products are delivered in top condition, meticulously cleaned and sanitized - definitely something that car rentals and hotels could improve.

Each product is carefully chosen by Serena and after six months of use each products is replaced and then given away for charity which makes the company even more unique. Serena wanted to make life easier for traveling parents and so far she has!

Fashionable Parenting is the new black and a company that has understood the importance of blending fashion with practicality is the Dutch luxury stroller company Bugaboo.

Bugaboo has made fashion strollers with high fashion companies like Missoni and Viktor&Rolf in the past. Now Bugaboo has gone more urban and together with Diesel created a denim and a military inspired Bugaboo that comes together with a line of stylish accessories.

"We know that accessories make the difference, so we have added a matching denim bag with leather details to the collection, featuring functional inside pockets for parents on the go. To complete your stroller wardrobe there is even a special-edition Bugaboo by Diesel with Seat Liner, Foot muff, Parasol and Mosquito Net in camouflage print from our first release" says Bugaboo

Bugaboo's All Black Special Edition is also a very popular stroller and proves that even when it comes to strollers there is always a need for a more advanced and more upscale stroller.

Another luxury stroller company is German Cybex who recently launched their Cybex Priam, a stylish sleek stroller designed with inspiration from the famous designers Ray and Charles Eames who combined functionalism with style. It can be folded with one hand which makes it an easy travel stroller.

Most parents have most likely on at least one flight wished for an extra set of hands when flying with their children. One airline is offering just that is Etihad Airways which offers Flying Nanny Service on all their long-haul flights and not just on First and Business Class but in Economy too. The national airline of the United Arab Emirates Etihad has trained more than a 1000 of their crew members to become Sky Nannies and not just any nannies - the Etihad Sky Nannies receive special training at the very respected Norland College in England that trains the very best nannies a parent could ever wish for – its the Harvard University of childcare!

The Sky Nannies help parents with their children from take off to landing with making or heating baby bottles, they entertain and organize activities from magic tricks, face painting to drawing competitions. Whatever is needed to keep your little traveller from crying or being bored on a long haul flight. We can only wish more airlines will follow this amazing act of service.

Another great company is Nanny in the Clouds, a California-based company that has developed a website that connects parents with nannies who are traveling on the same flight. Parents put in their flight details and if there is a nanny traveling on the same flight they can connect and the parents only pay for the hours on the flights which is about 20 USD per hour.

Suddenly traveling with kids has become much more painless and easy! Now the only question remaining is, where do we go? °
